

OHIO HIGHWAY BRANCH RAPPED BY PROFESSORS

Blame Administration for "Unnecessary" Boost
In Payrolls

COLLUSIVE BIDS
ARE CRITICIZED

Favorable Observations
Are Also Contained
In Report

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, June 29.—Six college professors appointed by Gov. Martin L. Davey to study the state highway department placed on the administration doorstep today responsibility for "unnecessary" payrolls in the department's payrolls during campaign years.

The board also criticized in its report instances of collusion in bidding, contract award manipulation, and high prices paid for "hot mix" paving materials, based on an investigation started last October.

Davey Has No Comment
Governor Davey in Cleveland reserved comment until he had studied the report, and Highway Director John J. Jaster, Jr., and other department officials could not be reached for statements.

"Pay rolls of the maintenance bureau have been increased at the time of primary and general elections, both in money and in the number of employees," the report said. "Many of these added employees are not necessary for the work of the bureau, as shown by the fact that in non-election years the fluctuations of the pay rolls is less pronounced."

"The correction of this abuse is within the power of the administration."

Both favorable and unfavorable observations were contained in the report, filed late yesterday. The latter included:

1. Payrolls unnecessarily increased during political campaigns.

2. Excessive prices paid for bituminous concrete in specific instances.

3. Collusion exists among bituminous concrete bidders.

4. Manipulation of contract awards by the highway department.

5. Price fixing among Portland cement, gasoline and drain tile bidders.

6. Federal bureau of public roads lacks confidence in state department inspectors.

7. Some contracts let without complying with law.

8. Civil service laws not fully enforced.

Favorable Comment
Among the favorable comments were:

1. Maintenance costs not excessive.

2. Majority of contracts let in compliance with law.

3. Testing laboratory work well done.

4. State does not have excessive bituminous mileage.

PATROL HALTS 2 HOLDUP MEN

"$4 Bandits" Are Stopped
By Gunfire, At 50-
Miles An Hour

(By Associated Press)
CINCINNATI, June 29.—A young Ohio highway patrolman's marksmanship with a confiscated rifle stuck through the broken windshield of his speeding car left one man fighting for his life today and another badly wounded as the aftermath of a $4 Chillioco restaurant holdup.

Patrolman Carl Whipple of the Wilmington station captured the pair last night near Milford after firing two effective shots into their fleeing car from the rifle which Indiana bank bandits fired at him last winter near New Vienna, O. He acquired the gun after their arrest in Chicago.

The pair taken last night was registered as Thomas Lance, 29, and Carl Frank, 34, both of Cincinnati. Lance was shot in the spine and was expected to die.

Frank, who, Lieut. A. O. Smith of the patrol reported, later signed a confession that he and Lance robbed the Chillioco restaurant of $4.10, was wounded in the shoulder.

Awaits Robber Car
Whipple, who narrowly escaped death in the New Vienna gun battle, stationed himself at Milford on receipt of a broadcast that the Chillioco robbers were headed this way. He said he spotted their car approaching and stood in the road.

"They drove right at me," he said, "and then sped off when I ran for cover."

He pursued in his car and with the butt of his rifle knocked a hole in his windshield. He rested the rifle barrel in the hole, and with one hand on the wheel and another on the trigger fired two shots as soon as he could without endangering others. The two cars were going 50 miles an hour at the time, he said.

Both men slumped and their car pulled to the side. Whipple said Frank attempted to run away but was caught a few feet from the car.

Police said the two men moved here three weeks ago from Washington Court House.

A Bad Habit

State highway patrolmen recovered, near Salem Monday night, a stolen car owned by Raymond Dugan of West Point, to whom the machine was returned.

Yesterday Dugan traded his car in on a new automobile. Last night the new car was stolen when he left it parked beside his house.

The much-victimized Dugan is beginning to think he isn't supposed to drive a car.

STOCKS JUMP AGAIN; PRICES UP $5 OR MORE

Traders Encouraged By
Lack of Any Important
Setback

NEW YORK, June 29.—The stock market resumed last week's record-breaking advance with one of the swiftest upswings of the year today.

New leading issues shot up $1 to $5 or more, registering new high prices for the June recovery.

Brokers said that while there were few developments in the underlying business situation to affect the market, traders were encouraged by the lack of any important setback during the past two days, when prices wavered after the sweeping upswing of last week.

U. S. Gypsum was a high-flier, shooting up $10.25 to a price of $96, but it then fell back a little.

$24,000 IS ASKED IN FOUR SUITS

Mrs. Ruth Parsons of East Liverpool Is Named Defendant In Auto Collision Cases

LISBON, June 29.—Mrs. Ruth Parsons of East Liverpool was named defendant in four suits today, growing out of an automobile collision Feb. 1 on Route 7, eight miles north of East Liverpool.

Mrs. Mabel Kercher asks $5,000 from Mrs. Parsons for alleged loss of support and companionship of her husband, who was injured in the crash. The husband, John Kercher, filed a suit seeking $15,000 for personal injuries received when the defendant's car crashed into the machine in which they were riding.

Another passenger, Albert Solomon, asks $1,500 for personal injuries, while the driver, Julius Borod, wants $2,500 to compensate injuries he suffered.

The plaintiffs charge Mrs. Parsons was driving on the wrong side of the road at the time and crashed into their machine on a curve.

PROPHETS NAME LEADERS TODAY

Edward Blake Winter of Toronto, Can., Scheduled to Succeed Monarch Hildebrandt

CLEVELAND, June 29.—Amid plans for a gigantic "mardi gras" parade and "festival of fire," the 49th annual convention of the Mystic Order of Valled Prophets paused briefly today for election of officers by the supreme council.

Under the traditional system of succession, Edward Blake Winter of Toronto, Canada, for the past year deputy grand monarch, will take the place of Grand Monarch Otto F. Hildebrandt of Rock Island, Ill.

Fraternals and nationality groups will join tonight with the gay veiled Order of the Lisbon-Lectoria this morning that all of her 15 chickens were stolen from her farm last night.

In a message to the convention, President Roosevelt said "there is so much good work for our order to do that I know the coming sessions will be fruitful of constructive action."

APPROVE WATER WORKS SYSTEM

Citizens at Washingtonville O. K. $14,000 PWA Project

WASHINGTONVILLE, June 29.—The village council last night approved a plan to construct a water works system and install sewer lines for the community's 800 residents.

Council took action following a citizens' meeting in the town hall. The residents, in general, voiced approval of the program.

Plans to be prepared will call for a $44,000 water works plant, in addition to the sewer lines, cost of which is not yet determined. Application will be made to the Public Works Administration for a $5 per cent grant and a $5 per cent loan to finance the undertaking, it is announced.

A bond issue vote on the part of the Washingtonville people will be required. If approved at the polls, mortgage revenue bonds will be issued. These can be paid off from funds taken in at the water works office.

FARGO, N. D., June 29.—U. S. Sen. Gerald P. Nye increased his lead over Gov. William Langer for the Republican senatorial nomination to approximately 15,000 when votes from a third of North Dakota's precincts in yesterday's primary election were tabulated today.

Usher L. Burdick and William Lemke, North Dakota's representatives in congress, also seemed assured of re-election in the Republican column.

WPA Workers Will Battle Barberry Bush, Rust Carrier

Will Eradicate Common Variety, Foe of Wheat; Japanese Type Will Be Spared

LISBON, June 29.—The common barberry bush, carrier of a rust injurious to wheat, will be the object of an intensive eradication campaign waged by 22 WPA workers starting July 1.

The workers will be instructed to destroy the plant to prevent its spread in the county. At present it does not constitute a serious menace to wheat crops but its spread might result in extensive damage.

The plant carries bright red oval berries, spiny edged leaves and thorns—usually three to five in a group. It differs in appearance from the Japanese barberry, which does not carry the rust and will not be destroyed.

The Japanese barberry, according to Floyd Lower, county agricultural extension agent, carries berries either singly or in two like gooseberries. The edge of the leaf is smooth and the thorns generally single. It is used commonly in hedges.

The common barberry is not a native of Ohio but was carried here from other localities by birds. It is found often in fence corners. The usual method of attack is with salt which kills the plant. Sometimes it is dug up by the roots and burned.

Workers eight or ten years ago went over the county destroying many plants. The comparative freedom from the effects of the blight enjoyed by wheat growers here is attributed to the earlier campaign.

FRENCH INVOKE DEATH FOR SPIES

War-time Penalty Will Be Enforced In Certain Forms of Espionage

(By Associated Press)
PARIS, June 29.—The French government today issued a decree establishing the death penalty in peacetime for certain forms of espionage. The law was designed to halt the growing number of spy cases in France in recent years.

Sentences of penal servitude for life, hitherto reserved for wartime espionage offenses, also were made applicable to peacetime convictions in a new drive which authorities said emulated Germany's recent counterespionage activities.

There has been a huge increase in espionage arrests in France in recent years. In the Strasbourg area alone—near the German frontier—there were 250 convictions on espionage charges in 1937.

This year such convictions have averaged nearly four a week. The new move was embodied in a decree law which also empowered the government to forbid foreigners to reside within "a certain distance" of fortifications and defense works.

HOWELL TRIAL NEARING JURY

Defendant in Heddleston Case Declares He Spent Evening In Pool Room

LISBON, June 29.—Pearl Howell, on trial here Monday on a charge of burglary and larceny, took the witness stand this morning in an effort to refute the state's claim that he robbed and assaulted Russell Heddleston, East Liverpool grocerman last February 22.

Howell testified he was in a Newell W. Va. pool room when the robbery occurred. He was preceded on the stand by 12 defense witnesses, some of whom maintained he was in the pool room the entire evening. Seven other defense witnesses were summoned but were not called to the stand.

Monday and early Tuesday morning Prosecutor Karl Stouffer and his assistant Louis Tobin placed 19 witnesses on the stand, including Heddleston. The victim identified Howell as the man who attacked him with a tire iron when the former unexpectedly entered his store early in the evening.

The defendant, Heddleston stated, rose from behind a counter where he had been crouching and struck the store owner with the tire iron several times with the iron. The weapon and a sweater said to have been worn by the intruder also were identified.

The case was expected to go to the jury early this afternoon. The first trial, held a month ago, resulted in a hung jury.

Who Has "Spilled the Beans" On British Aircraft Secrets?

This and New Web of Spanish War Complications Involve Prime Minister Chamberlain

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, June 29.—A double-barrelled inquiry involving questions of broad political significance threatened to weave new strands into the already tangled web of Britain's defense and panish war problems today.

The war ministry selected "Big Bill" Gen. Sir Edmund Ironside to head a military court of inquiry to learn who has been "spilling the beans" on secrets of Britain's anti-aircraft defense.

Leslie More-Belisha, the dynamic war minister whose combination of boyish enthusiasm and ruthless efficiency has swept him to widespread popularity, stood to play an important role in what the government opposition said might develop into a first class "scandal."

The house of commons was worked up over the allegation of Duncan Sandys, conservative member of parliament and son-in-law of Winston Churchill, that he was threatened with invocation of the official secrets act—a rigid measure intended to apply mainly to spies.

Sandys charged the threat was made when Airy Gen. Sir Donald Somervell, at request of the war ministry, sought to learn where the parliament had secured the information upon which he proposed to base a question concerning alleged shortage of anti-aircraft guns to defend 45,000,000 Britons.

Critics of the government said Prime Minister Chamberlain was worried because Sandys' question would have disclosed a grave inadequacy in anti-aircraft preparedness.

Chamberlain swiftly promised an investigation of the threat by a select committee of commons. The motion for appointment of a committee of commons was ordered by the war office "immediately" to find out who gave Sandys his information.

It was apparent that the inquiry might have far-reaching consequences for the government of Prime Minister Chamberlain, already concerned by the public reaction to Spanish insurgent air raids on Britain's pride, her merchant ships. There has been much dissatisfaction by the press with use of the official secrets act to prosecute anti-aircraft experts. The house of commons was anxious to use the Sandys incident to get a clarification of the circumstances under which the act can be invoked.

POTTERY CHIEF ASSAILS LEWIS

Duffy Deplores AFL - CIO Rift As Brotherhood Opens Meeting

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 29.—The National Brotherhood of Operative Potters began its annual convention yesterday, attended by 115 delegates who will meet behind closed doors for about two weeks.

James M. Duffy of East Liverpool, O., president of the union, reviewed the history of collective bargaining in the pottery industry and told the delegates "there is no substitute for the trade union."

"The Wagner Labor Relations Act was regarded by some as a possible substitute for the trade union," said Duffy, "but it only took care of those workers who were afraid to organize."

Labor Rift Scored
Duffy deplored the present rift between the AFL and the CIO, and expressed belief "only his own" would "stop John L. Lewis."

"As soon as Lewis comes to his senses," he said, "the labor movement will enable workers to gain their objective—a better standard of living."

Duffy surveyed governmental changes under the new deal and remarked he had "expected to see conditions much better by this time than they are."

"Six years ago," he said, "there were 13,000,000 people out of work in this country. Now there are still 13,000,000 out of work, and the national debt is three times as great."

Small Industry Sacrificed
"I still think no other government offers as much to the worker as the American government, but Mussolini and Hitler started to the way we are going now.... We workers should not forget that what government can give, government can take away."

He condemned failure of the state department to "do anything about" importation of "cheap" pottery and chinaware from other countries, particularly Japan. Duffy charged that in reciprocal trade agreements, state department officials had "sacrificed the interests of the small pottery industry in order that big industries might profit thereby."

He expressed satisfaction, however, that the AFL's "Buy American" campaign had greatly reduced imports of Japanese goods and "the campaign is gaining momentum."

Alliance Man Dies Of Crash Injuries

ALLIANCE, June 29.—Charles Wilson, 26, died Tuesday afternoon in City hospital of a fractured skull received Sunday, when a car in which he was a passenger, skidded on the Sebring-Alliance road.

Wilson was a passenger in a machine operated by John W. Josh, 19, of Alliance. Donald Allen, also of Alliance, another passenger, was less seriously hurt.

The accident occurred, Deputy Sheriff W. D. Parr said, when the vehicle skidded on slippery pavement.

"BE MODERATE" DUCE CAUTIONS

Approves Attacks on Contraband, Disclaims Responsibility

ROME, June 29.—A spokesman for the Fascist regime declared today that Italy had advised Gen. Francisco Franco, the Spanish insurgent leader, to use "moderation" in his efforts to prevent British and other foreign ships from bringing supplies to government Spain.

The spokesman, the noted editor, Virginio Gayda, said, however, that Italy approved of the bombing of vessels carrying contraband but disclaimed any Italian responsibility therefor.

In an inspired article in the Giornale D'Italia, Gayda disclosed the content of the conversation last night between the Earl of Perth, Britain's ambassador, and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

The editor said Ciano told Lord Perth that Franco already had taken a series of measures to give the British government satisfaction with regard to the long list of bombings of British ships, against which London has protested vigorously.

These measures, Gayda said, were:

First, Franco had given orders that British ships should not be attacked while navigating.

Second, he had ordered that the British flag be respected as far as possible in Spanish government ports.

Third, Franco was willing to name free ports in western Spain (insurgent-held) where "honest traffic" would have free entry.

The Perth-Ciano conference produced speculation that it might bring an end to air raids on British merchantmen in Spanish waters.

IT MIGHT BE FUNNY

Ohio's legislature, six weeks on an intensive hunt for a relief program, has ended up in an old fashioned backyard fight over whether to crack the egg on the little end or the big end. Its bone of contention is whether counties should be allowed to mortgage anticipated revenue up to 90 per cent, or just to 70 per cent.

Were the situation not so tragic it might be funny. When thousands are threatened with actual starvation it is a travesty on democratic government for such a deadlock to exist.

A conference committee, seeking to compose differences between the two houses, approved the 70 per cent figure. The senate accepted, then by adjourning told the house to take its decision or leave it. The house, claiming 70 per cent isn't enough, refuses to give in and is demanding a new conference committee.

The situation is not without political implications. The governor can adjourn the session, then call the legislators back with a dramatic special message. Gov. Davey's opponents in the legislature, who claim to have him on the run with disclosures made by the recent senate investigation, may find their efforts gone for naught should they fail to rise to the current relief emergency.

ADDING AND SUBTRACTING

The national debt is about $37,500,000,000 at this time—biggest lot of IOU's ever collected.

When a person wonders "Whither America?" he thinks about that debt. Then, if he's one of those mean old conservatives, he remembers the new deal keeps adding to the debt all the time.

This, says Jay Franklin, apologist for the administration, is wrong. Sixteen billions of the debt should be blamed on Woodrow Wilson. Five billions should be blamed on Herbert Hoover. Two billions should be blamed on World War veterans. Four billions are recoverable. Another two billions are in the exchange stabilization fund (How can one be sure of that?) and another three billions are in the treasury's general fund. Subtract them from $37,500,000,000 and—Abacadabra! You have $5,500,000,000, the new deal debt. Nice going. But when you add 'em up together again you get $37,500,000,000 just the same, don't you? It's amazing what you can do with figures.

THAT'S SPORTSMANSHIP

Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney's blast against dictator countries which don't understand the "concept" for which the Olympics were inaugurated may sound self-righteous, but it's true there's little in common among nations on a sportsmanship basis. They don't speak the same language.

The former president of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States knows that even in the United States, there's room for misunderstanding. Still, in most cases, what an American would do in the name of sportsmanship is something most Europeans wouldn't even think of doing.

For instance if Joe Louis had gone to Germany, and Max Schmeling had beaten off his ears, no American would think of telling the fallen hero to come home anyway. He would have said, "Tough luck, Joe. That Schmeling must be a marvel." Even if he didn't mean it, he would say it. That's sportsmanship.

BOOTSTRAPS

There can be no objection on a basis of humanitarianism to raising WPA wage levels in southern states, in view of the low level of even the higher wages now to be paid.

If private industry in southern states is to be forced by law to pay certain minimum wages which will not be less than those for similar work in northern states, then the government, itself, cannot ask for differentials between the north and the south in paying work relief wages.

Economists who have not yet been graduated from the old fashioned school of thought may argue that wage differentials are an effect, not a cause, of southern conditions affecting wage levels. They may contend that the south cannot be made to lift itself by its own bootstraps, that first it must be able to increase the productivity of its labor. Their arguments do not apply to WPA labor, whose wage is independent of productivity, but completely dependent on such things as politics and social reform.

THE STARS SAY:

For Thursday, June 30

A day of rather intriguing as well as adventurous experiences in both the private and business lives is forecast from the predominant planetary configurations. Writings, publishing and promotional enterprises may prove lucrative. In the intimate relations there is need of discretion, as peculiar or subtle slants might prove regrettable.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of sudden and surprising adventures involving change through writings, publicity, renewed contracts and strange associations.

A child born on this day may have a very lively, progressive and adventurous nature, with tendencies to the subtle and shrewd in attaining its objectives. It may be easy-going, generous and kindly, and may find it difficult to conserve the fruit of its enterprise.

SIRENS AND SHELLS ROUTINE FOR BARCELONA

BARCELONA, Spain (Correspondence of The Associated Press)—The spine-chilling wails of the sirens warning of air raids and the hoarse, excited roars of anti-aircraft batteries are daily—and nightly—routine for Barcelona, like the crash of artillery shells for Madrid.

Life in the capital of government Spain adjusts itself around the insurgent air raids just as it does for the hot sun of noon and the starry nights of Spain's third summer of war.

Vestiges of old life Despite the rationing of light, the 9 p. m. curfew, the scarcity of transport, the meagreness of wartime food, some of Barcelona's old life remains. The sidewalk cafes serving synthetic Vermouth and coffee still are crowded.

Cinema theaters are well patronized, although they still are showing pictures which came to Spain before the war began.

Dog racing and the various forms of jai alai, where betting is loud and complicated, are popular. There is amateur football, boxing, swimming. Six or eight theaters show drama, musical comedy and vaudeville.

Food for the man with a job is adequate, but not very tempting. Popular restaurants under state control sell meals for five and ten pesetas (nominally 30 or 60 cents). Almost everyone has some way of getting a little more than the official ration, either through an extra ration card or a friend in the country.

Yet outside factories, barracks and hospitals there nearly always are little queues of ragged women and children with pots and pans waiting for handouts of leftovers. Wine has almost disappeared, for lack of transport. Beer vanished months ago. Bread is rationed strictly. Rice, beans, vegetables and fruits in season and limited meat and fish make up the menu.

Peseta's Value Falls Despite the begging of food and other prices, the value of the peseta abroad continues to fall. Hence imports are less and less. Great gaps appear in shop windows.

Newspapers, after nearly two years of war, print less war news than ever, nothing but the short communiques issued nightly by the ministry of defense. They are rigidly censored and recently three papers were suspended for disobeying orders.

The government's censorship extends, of course, to the dispatches of foreign correspondents. Even

Economist Ayres Sees Recession's Turn

OTTAWA, Ont., June 29—America has already reached, or will reach late in 1938, the bottom of the present depression, Leonard P. Ayres, economist of the Cleveland Trust Co., told the American Association for the Advancement of Science yesterday.

Characterizing the United States government's $3,750,000,000 spending program as "politically primed prosperity," Ayres admitted it would spur business activity.

He said "American resources are so great that they can support such a program for a long time to come," but added: "This is a very serious condition, for in the long run the new system of political prosperity can be made to work well enough to destroy gradually the habits of self-help and enterprise on which a free society depends."

As the United States enters on its "second vast experiment in pump priming" it is well on the way toward the control of business "by persons whose principal occupation is not industry, finance, agriculture or trade, but the winning of elections," he told the economics section.

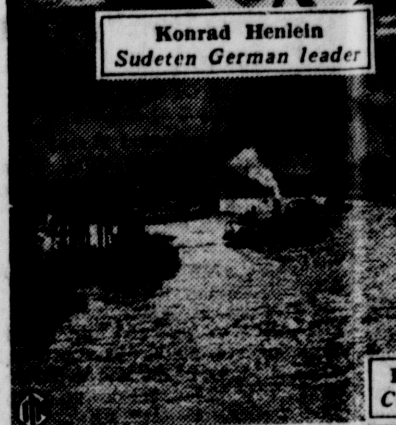

Before making his prediction for business recovery Ayres declared that such forecasts were always difficult and were made doubly so today by "politicians, mystics, demagogues, prophets, reformers and soldiers" who know nothing of business processes.

Hitler May Try Economic Blockade on Czechs

Although the crisis precipitated by autonomy demands of Konrad Henlein and his Sudeten German followers has past, Czechoslovakia is still faced with numerous problems. There is even a possibility that Hitler may employ an economic blockade to force the sturdy Czech government to yield. The Nazis buy one-fifth of Czech exports and sell them about one-fifth of their imports. In addition, the new Germany practically surrounds

Czechoslovakia on three sides and prohibitive tariffs would force the Czechs to ship their exports by expensive and lengthy routes. Reports that Germany is angling for an agreement with Russia which would leave them a free hand in Czechoslovakia in return for certain concessions to Moscow have also caused alarm in Prague since Russia is looked to for support in a crisis even more than France or Great Britain.

KIDNEY STONE

Kidney stone is a subject which has been long discussed by medical scientists. It is unpleasant for them to admit any degree of ignorance, but the fact is, there is much to learn about kidney stone. It is a condition associated with the various disorders which are believed by many to be due to uric acid. At least that was the view of 15 or 20 years ago when kidney stone was regarded as being associated with the gout.

Many theories have been set forth since. Now it is believed that other chemicals or minerals may have a part in the formation. Besides uric acid, lime, phosphates and oxalates are blamed, and infection is thought to play a part in the stone formation.

Kidney stones may reach large size, or in the form of tiny crystals, known as "gravel" or "sand" may pass away with the urine. The stone which has formed in the kidney and remained there till it has become very large, presents one problem. Another problem arises when a rather small stone is dislodged and crowds its way through the ureter, the tube intended to carry the urine to the bladder. Then there is real trouble.

The passage of a kidney stone produces great pain. There may have been a more or less constant dull ache in the back like lumbago, as there usually is in all cases of kidney stone. But when it reaches the ureter, the stone stretches that tube and tears its delicate lining. There may be sickness at the stomach, vomiting and even fainting. The suffering, called "renal colic," continues for hours or even days, until the stone drops into the bladder.

There it may remain, gradually growing larger, or may continue its journey and escape with the urine. If it stops in the bladder, it may be rough and sharp enough to wound the tissues and cause bleeding.

The X-ray will reveal a great deal, but sometimes a crystal too small to be seen in this way may produce terrible pain in its passage. Indeed, there is an old saying, "The smaller the stone the greater the colic."

A kidney stone may grow to large size, the "stag-horn" type, and yet produce no symptoms. Its existence may be discovered quite by accident, an X-ray picture being taken perhaps for some other reason than to examine the kidney. Small stones, "calculi," pass out with the urine, and no bad after effects remain.

The pain of renal colic, like other pain, is controlled by sedatives and heat. To prevent the formation of more stones, it is wise to drink plenty of water every day. The purpose is to keep the urine diluted and thus discourage the precipitation in the kidney of the solids it contains.

If there is a gouty tendency, this is given appropriate treatment. The attending physician will give attention to the ductless glands, particularly the parathyroid. Your doctor will tell you about this.

G-Men Push Spy Investigation.

Leon Turrou

Johanna Hofmann

Dr. Ignatz Griebel

Indictment of 18 persons charged with espionage is only the first step in a campaign by which the government hopes to check the extensive espionage activities now going on in United States. After a prolonged investigation headed by Leon Turrou, G-man who recently resigned, the spy ring, allegedly headed by fugitive Dr. Ignatz Griebel, was broken up. One of its reputed members, Johanna Hofmann, beauty operator on the German liner Europa, provided several valuable leads in obtaining evidence. In Europe the situation is even worse. Undercover agents on the continent are charged with fomenting the unrest which precipitated the Spanish civil war and resulted in Austria's annexation by Germany.

"CONTRABAND" by Dennis Wheatley

...telling that he had gained ... and that at least she would ... commit herself further for the ... being, he mixed some cocktails ... asked what she intended to do ... evening ... do not know—now," she re- ... slowly ... Why not dine with me, then? ... suggested. "Let's go. We'll ... all this until you've had ... to sleep on it."

To his immense relief, she con- ... and so it was agreed that she ... should take a taxi back to the ... while he changed into even- ... clothes, and that he should ... her up there at eight o'clock ... kissed again and chugged to ... other as though they were ... for a period of years al- ... though they were to meet again in ... over an hour.

It was only when he was in his ... that doubts about the wisdom ... his action began to assail him ... he had been so quiet and said so ... while he had been pressing ... arguments upon her to cut clear of ... mess she was in before it was ... late. She had promised noth- ... and he really knew little of ... deeply she might be implicated ... Lord Gavin's plans. What if he ... failed to convince her of her ... and she gave him the slip ... this now for his own ad- ... vant that he was working with ... police, she would avoid any ... where she feared he might ... her. It might be weeks or ... months before he could hope to ... her trail if she once ... abandoned the Carlton.

Immediately he reached the hotel ... worst forebodings were realized ... bland young man behind the ... counter shook his head. ... "I'm sorry, sir, Mademoiselle Szend- ... left here half an hour ago."

"Did she leave an address?" ... "No, sir, but if you're Mr. Sallust ... it a letter for you?"

"Yes, let's have it, please." With ... fingers Gregory tore open the ... envelope and read the few ... upon the single sheet:

You work for the police. To con- ... it because you hoped to save ... was generous of you, but if ... had known me better you ... had never have done so. How is it ... possible that I should ever betray ... a man who has been so good to ... mother and myself?

That you should be engaged in ... work you are is tragic for me. I ... did you so very much, but now ... must put our brief hour behind ... because it is impossible for us ... to meet as friends again.

Sabine.

For a moment Gregory regarded ... note a little stupidly. Then he ... moved angrily to leave the hotel ... his surprise he found himself ... into Gerry Wells' freckled ... "The young Inspector was ... there, also in a neat dark ... lounge suit, a black soft hat ... smiling in one hand and a walking stick in the other. He was smil- ... ing broadly.

"Well, how's the amateur detec- ... tive getting on?" he inquired cheer- ... fully.

"He's not," Gregory snapped. ... "For my sake let's have a drink ... business." He led the way down ... the passage to the cocktail bar, ... where he confessed to Wells what ... an utter fool he had been.

"I wouldn't worry too much," the ... Inspector chuckled when Gregory ... had finished his cocktail. "I've had ... a couple of men following her all ... day, just in case you slipped up. ... She's on the road to Quex Park ... now, as I've just learned from one ... of the flying squad cars that's sit- ... ting on her tail, and as soon as I've ... had a bite to eat I'm flying down ... myself. When your man told me ... on the telephone, ten minutes ago ... that you'd changed in a hurry to ... dash out to dinner, I had a hunch ... I'd find you here. I thought per- ... haps you might like to go with me. ... Maybe you'll see her again this eve- ... ning."

Gregory and Wells considered it ... unlikely that the smugglers would ... undertake any operations much be- ... fore midnight, but Sabine would do ... the journey to Quex Park in a cou- ... ple of hours and so should arrive ... there by quarter past ten, or a ... little after. They decided to lose ... no time following her down into ... Kent.

They had spent barely a quarter ... of an hour in reviewing the situa- ... tion, so Gregory reckoned that ... even allowing for a return to his ... flat and a scratch meal on the sur- ... plus of the supplies got in for Sa- ... bine's tea he could reach Croydon, ... where Wells' plane was stationed, ... by 9:30, if he was quick changing ... into more suitable clothes.

Wells was awaiting him, at the ... time arranged, beside a single-en- ... gine, 120 h.p., two-seater Tiger ... Moth.

"Hello! Open cockpit," said ... Gregory. "Wish I'd known; I'd ... have put on warmer clothes."

"You'll be all right," Wells as- ... sured him. "It isn't a long trip and ... there's a rug inside. Here," he ... held out a flat, neatly packed bun- ... dle with arm straps attached. "Your ... parachute. It'll help to keep your ... back warm."

"Parachute! What the hell do I ... want with a parachute?" Gregory ... growled.

"Nothing, I hope, but I'm afraid ... you've got to wear it if you're com- ... ing in my plane. Government regu- ... lations."

"Oh well!" Gregory pushed his ... arms through the loops and fasten- ... ed the gear about his waist, then ... climbed into the observer's seat.

The sun had set at a little be- ... fore nine. It was nearly dark now ... and the stars were coming out ... again for what promised to be an- ... other almost cloudless August ... night.

Twenty-five minutes after leav- ... ing Croydon they picked out the ... great mile-wide belt of trees which ... gave Quex Park such shelter, yet ... threw it up from the air in the ... flat surrounding landscape. Wells ... kept well to the south of it, pass- ... ing over the little village of Acol, ... then veered northward towards the ... sea. After a moment a single ... beam of light showed in the fields ... to the east of the park and he ... came down towards it.

"I wasn't taking any chances this ... time," he shouted back to Gregory ... as they bumped to a standstill. "I ... gave orders for my man to show a ... light here—where you came down ... before."

The torch had disappeared but a ... voice came out of the darkness: ... "Mr. Wells?"

"Yes, Simmons, what's the ... latest?"

"Thompson reported twenty min- ... utes ago, sir. There's nothing fresh ... so he's gone back to watch this ... house again."

"Good." The Inspector smiled ... over his shoulder towards Gregory. ... "We've beaten her to it then, but ... she ought to be here fairly soon. ... Simmons will look after the plane ... while we go inside and give the ... lady a silent welcome."

Gregory granted noncommittally ... as he climbed out. True, he want- ... ed desperately to get in touch with ... Sabine again, but not when he was ... in the Inspector's company. Wells ... had quite enough evidence upon ... which to arrest her at any moment ... he chose and Gregory knew that ... she was only being left at liberty so ... long as she might prove useful as ... a scratch meal on the surplus of ... the supplies got in for Sabine's ... tea he could reach Croydon, where ... Wells' plane was stationed, by 9:30, ... if he was quick changing into more ... suitable clothes.

Wells was awaiting him, at the ... time arranged, beside a single-en- ... gine, 120 h.p., two-seater Tiger ... Moth.

"Hello! Open cockpit," said ... Gregory. "Wish I'd known; I'd ... have put on warmer clothes."

"You'll be all right," Wells as- ... sured him. "It isn't a long trip and ... there's a rug inside. Here," he ... held out a flat, neatly packed bun- ... dle with arm straps attached. "Your ... parachute. It'll help to keep your ... back warm."

Congressmen Take Entertainment Into Season's Political Wars

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Every- ... thing from steam calliope to hula ... hula dancers will go with congress- ... men to the political wars of the ... next five months.

Years of campaigning have ... taught many of them that speech- ... making and baby-kissing no longer ... guarantee victory at the polls. The ... voters want to be entertained, as ... well. Thus, music and showman- ... ship are called into play by the ... political hopefuls.

Rep. Kleberg (D-Tex.) whose ... family owns the famous King ... ranch, strums a guitar and sings ... Spanish and German songs to his ... constituents between declamations ... about legislative issues.

Don't Want Talks

Community singing is an old ... standby with Rep. Rabaut (D- ... Mich.). A popular singer, Rabaut ... says his constituents "don't want ... to hear me talk? They want me to ... sing and to sing with me. They ... don't seem to remember that I won ... five medals for public speaking."

Handsome Rep. Woodrum (D- ... Va.), who devotes much of his ... time in Washington to appropri- ... ation bills, has been known to sing ... "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" ... when he hits the campaign trail.

When it comes to music, how- ... ever, delegate King from far-off ... Hawaii has his colleagues in the ... house stopped.

He carries an Hawaiian orchestra ... with him in an airplane when he ... campaigns around the six major is- ... lands in his district. Hula-hula ... girls go along—and so does Mrs. ... King.

King's fellow delegate, Dimond ... of Alaska, has perhaps the most hazardous time campaigning. Di- ... mond's territory is larger than the ... state of Texas, so he travels most- ... ly by plane. Fogs frequently force ... him to land far from civilization.

Rep. Fletcher (D-Ohio), a for- ... mer Chautauqua lecturer, seldom ... makes formal speeches. Instead he ... holds "open forums" in which the ... audience selects the topic and ... Fletcher answers questions.

Then there's Rep. George Holden ... Tinkham, bewhiskered Boston Re- ... publican, who doesn't campaign at ... all. He goes to Europe or Africa ... while most of his colleagues are ... stumping their districts. This year ... it's Africa.

It was left for Rep. Mitchell (D- ... Tenn.), however, to fall back on ... the travelling circus's old reliable ... crowd gatherer—the calliope. He ... rented one early this year for his ... entire campaign.

'Best' Hats for Summer Chic

Here Are Four Beauties to Set Off Those Beguiling Frocks

By MARIE MAROT

WE think that we can get along all summer with little casual hats and sports models. Then, all of a sudden, along comes an event or an invitation that means dressing up with a lovely hat to set off a beguiling frock. Here are four beauties, all "best" hats. A lovely model is the black lacy straw, top, that is loaded forward with ostrich tips in apple green and iris blue. The veil can be individually draped. Nice with tailored sheers is the navy toyo straw hat, center, which is faced with white capeskin. The quill also is of the white leather. For sheer tailors we recommend the disc of natural straw, left, below, that is mounted on a navy ribbon band and tied up with a sheer veil. Then there is the enticing model, right, below, with flattering brim and peaked crown, that is made from basketweave in a chalky white. Piled high with blue gentians, it is lovely with flowered chiffons.

Offensive Nicknames In Youth Held Responsible For Inferiority Complex

(By International News Service)
PORTLAND, Ore.—"Hey, Sissy!"
Did they call you "sissy" or "skinny" or by some similar nickname when you were young?
If they did, and you have an inferiority complex, now, the two facts probably can be linked together, according to Rev. John Delauney, dean of men at Portland university.
Speaking before the Progressive
Business Men's club in Portland,
Father Delauney declared that a weak ego, in the adult oftentimes is caused by a sense of inferiority growing out of a nickname that proved secretly offensive in youth.

The weak ego, he said, shows itself in many different lights.
For instance, he cited the case of a woman who refused to play golf because she preferred the self-martyrdom of staying home to darn her husband's socks. Other types of weak ego include "hen pecked" husbands and "yes men."

Sensitive Person Handicapped
The type which probably has the worst time in later life, Father Delauney said, is the sensitive person who considers even the most casual remark a direct reflection on himself. That type has a "terrible time."

Persons with a cowlick, red hair, freckles, a squint, or any one of dozens of similar things which might cause an inferiority complex, had best forget it entirely, because there is nothing that can be done to remedy it—and no good to be done by brooding about it,
Father Delauney said.

He pointed out, however, that persons suffering an inferiority complex because of inability to dance, or engage in conversation easily, usually can overcome their weakness by hard work and study.

Scott's Cigars Gain Third Straight Win In Class A Race

NEWSIES CHALK UP SECOND WIN IN ROUND RACE

Foremen's Rally In 7th Fails To Top Scott's Cigars

Determined to win a round championship before the Class A Softball league completes its 1938 season, Scott's Cigars remained hot on the trail of the senior circuit's third round title last evening as they punched out a 9 to 7 victory over Mullins Foremen.

It was the third straight victory of the third round for the Cigars, who were runner-up for the first round championship and finished third in the second round race.

The Cigars came near dropping the decision in the seventh inning when Pitcher Dale Ritchie eased up to permit the Foremen to touch him for seven runs, including a homer by Jack Harroff. Ritchie held the Foremen scoreless until the seventh frame.

The Cigars used a seven-run spree in the second inning to send them off to victory. They added two other runs in the sixth frame.

Both teams collected nine hits in the contest. Ritchie worked the full route on the mound for the Cigars, while Jim Fitzpatrick did likewise for Mullins.

The Salem News registered its second straight victory of the third round in the other Class A contest, spanking Demings 5 to 2.

A home run by Eddie Pukalski and a triple by Bob Ketterer featured the News batting attack which brought in three runs in the fourth frame and two in the fifth.

Demings tallied once in the third inning and once in the seventh. Pitcher McQuiston of Demings hurled no-hit, no-run ball for three innings, but failed to hold the pace and gave up six safe blows in the remaining three frames he worked. George McPeely worked the distance on the mound for the News and turned in a good job in holding Demings to five safe blows.

A three-way tie for first place in the second round race of the Class B league remained unbroken last evening as the Emmanuel Lutherans defeated the Trinity Lutherans, 7 to 1, to continue in a deadlock with the Columbians and Methodists.

Bill Pauline held the Trinity nine to four hits in pitching the Emmanuel to the victory. His mates climbed aboard Pitcher Schmidt of the Trinity Lutherans for seven hits.

Eight errors by their opponents enabled the Friends to gain a 4 to 2 victory over the Presbyterians in the other Class B game. The Presbyterians collected as many hits as the Friends, six, but looked weak in fielding.

SCALPING CURB FOR ALL-STAR GAME EVOKED

Sale Conducted By Mail And Large Orders Are Reduced

CINCINNATI, June 29.—Harry Murdough, a "behind the scenes" member of the Cincinnati Reds' official family, is on the "blacklist" of baseball fans from coast to coast because he was confronted with a mathematical problem that defied solution.

Murdough, manager of the Reds' ticket department, was given the unenviable task of handling the sale of tickets to the Major League All-Star game here July 6, and he brought the wrath of fans down on his head because of his inability to make 24,000 reserved and box seats take care of requests for the staggering total of 140,000 duets.

Murdough and a staff of six assistants devoted a full month to the all-star game ticket situation. They had requests for reservations from 35,000 persons. The applications came from every state in the Union and Canada. The individual requests varied from the humble fan who wanted one ticket for himself to organizations, clubs and business firms that requested up to 500 tickets.

No definite limit was established on the number of tickets allotted any person, Murdough said, but virtually every order was reduced and an effort made to take care of as many fans as possible.

The sale was conducted primarily on a "first-come-first-served" basis. However, Cincinnati fans received the preference over out-of-town applicants.

"Undoubtedly we will be criticized for this practice," Murdough said, "but I think it was the only fair thing to do. The scene of the All-Star game is changed annually to permit fans in the various sections to see it and when we are asked to the contest, I believe it just that we take care of the dyed-in-the wool fans who support us at the gate by their regular attendance."

Murdough estimated that of the reserve and box seats approximately 16,000 went to Cincinnati fans and 8,000 to out-of-town persons. The local residents also are expected to obtain the bulk of the 4,500 bleacher seats that go on sale July 1 and the 2,500 "standing room only" admissions that will be sold the day of the game.

Every effort was made, Murdough said, to prevent any tickets from falling into the hands of speculators

SNELL RETIRES AS GOP LEADER

Roosevelt Critic Will Not
Be Candidate for Re-election

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Attempts to liberalize the house Republican leadership in the 1939 congress appeared likely today as a result of the retirement of Minority Leader Bertrand H. Snell.

Snell, outspoken critic of Roosevelt policies, announced he would not be a candidate for re-election. After 24 years in congress, he said, he had decided to devote himself to his varied business interests in northern New York.

Politicians, speculating as to Snell's successor, recalled the unsuccessful efforts made in 1936 by Representative Fish (R., N. Y.) to replace him with a leader favoring a "more progressive" program.

Martin Favored
Among the few congressmen still in Washington, the first name generally mentioned for Snell's post was that of Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, assistant minority leader. He is 53; Snell is 67.

Friends of Martin asserted his political viewpoint was liberal enough to satisfy all factions of the party. They noted that while he opposed many Roosevelt measures, he supported much of the President's social legislation, including the wage-hour bill signed Saturday by the President.

Martin, a newspaper publisher at North Attleboro, Mass., began his political career in the Massachusetts house of representatives in 1912. He came to congress in 1924. Alfred M. Landon's eastern manager in the 1936 presidential campaign, he now is chairman of the Republican congressional committee.

Other possible candidates for Snell's post are Representatives Wadsworth of New York, chairman of the Republican policy committee; Mapes of Michigan, dean of the house Republicans; Taber of New York, one of the President's most consistent critics in congress; Treadway of Massachusetts, ranking minority member of the ways and means committee, and Fish.

The executive committee of the national Republican organization was in session here yesterday about the time Snell's announcement was made. Chairman John Hamilton commented that Snell has been a source of "great strength to the party."

The committee gave Hamilton a vote of confidence, declaring he and his staff "have functioned efficiently and adequately" in co-operation with the congressional campaign committees.

Theater Attractions

Dick Baldwin and June Lang in a scene from "One Wild Night" at the State Thursday only.

Two mystery films show at the theaters Thursday only.

The State offers a mystery comedy, "One Wild Night," which gives leading roles to June Lang and Dick Baldwin, who were seen together in "International Settlement."

June Lang is seen as an irresponsible reporter in quest of the great American news scoop while Baldwin has the part of a willing novice criminologist whose every action is defeated by the girl reporter. His well-intentioned efforts to solve a crime wave in a small town give his chief-of-police father a headache and results in having half the town's leading citizens locked up as suspects in an extortion case.

Three Disappear
Three men in the small city disappear and before the mystery of their disappearance is solved, marked money pops up in collection plates, department stores, barber shops and Lyle Talbot's racetrack book-making office.

J. Edward Bromberg and Sidney Toler have featured parts.

CHINA MISSION PROBLEM ACUTE

Huge Investment Bound To Be Affected By Warfare

SHANGHAI—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—To the American missionary movement in China, the greatest organized endeavor of its kind in the world, the Chinese-Japanese war has brought serious problems, both present and future, and an abundance of hard work and danger for individual missionaries.

Many of the 6,000 American missionaries have been directly involved in war risks and hardships. Mission property has been bombed and shelled. Mission compounds have been barricaded against fighting just outside their walls. Some missionaries have seen their towns change hands more than once.

Few Meet Death

A few missionaries have met death since the war began but nearly all these were due to isolated affairs well behind the battle lines. This is in contrast to the Boxer uprising of 1900, in which more than 200 occidental missionaries and members of their families were slain.

The end of the war is sure to bring new problems, no matter who wins. Victory for the Japanese would see the extensive foreign missionary influence tested against Japanese controls and Japanese plans for spreading their "new culture" in China.

A Chinese victory, experienced observers believe, might see the spread of anti-foreign sentiment as part of a great revival of Chinese national consciousness. Manifestations of this spirit, seeking a China free of foreign interests and failing to distinguish between the foreign missionary and the foreign business man, brought missionary killings in 1927.

Investment Endangered

Either way, therefore, the $43,000,000 investment in China of United States missionary and philanthropic societies, with an expenditure of millions of dollars annually, is sure to be vitally affected by policies of China's post-war masters.

Should the Chinese win, however, the missionary movement can hope for help from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's support of Christianity and from a widespread appreciation of the manner in which missionaries have coped with the tragic problem of providing food and shelter for millions of the war's destitute.

Medical missionaries have saved thousands of lives and inoculated scores of thousands against infectious disease. Relief committees have labored at Shanghai, Nanking and other centers of suffering without attention to creed, Catholics and Protestants working side by side for the stricken populace.

Deal With All Sides

In some instances American missionaries, safeguarding mission properties and their native followers, have dealt with Chinese regulars, guerrillas and bandits and the Japanese army, in quick succession.

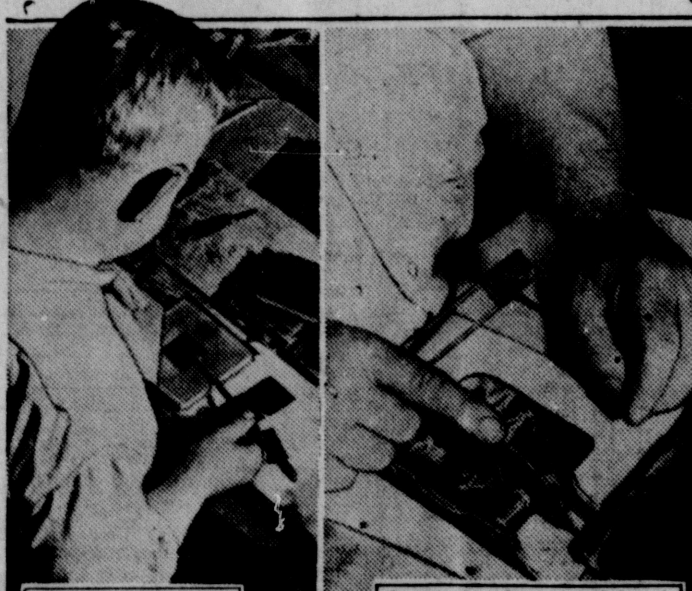

Japanese military leaders have paid tribute to the courage of American missionaries, many of whom have remained at their posts in beleaguered and ultimately captured cities.

American Protestant missionary activity can be said to have begun in China in 1807. In 1900 there were 1,000 missionaries in the country, representing 30 societies. In 1937 there were more than 6,000 American workers of 107 societies.

In 1935 total American holdings in China were estimated at $240,000,000, of which the property of missions and philanthropic organizations came to $43,000,000.

The first Catholic mission was founded in China at the start of the 14th century. In 1936 the Catholic movement included 415 orphanages, 16,197 schools, 236 hospitals and asylums, in addition to churches.

Science Threatens Goldbeaters

Wrapping gold leaf

Quartering hammered ingot

Goldbeating machine

Science threatens to leave the goldbeater shorn of his historic and traditional trade. The delicate art of hammering out small ingots into gold leaf 250,000th of an inch in thickness has long been done by hand. Heretofore no machine has been devised capable of duplicating the fine craftsmanship of the goldbeater, but now an automatic hammer of uncanny precision threatens to revolutionize the industry. Brooklyn, N. Y., is the center of the U. S. gold leaf business which supplies artists, bookbinders and painters with gold tissue for decorative purposes. But this ancient craft is on the way to being mechanized and the goldbeater appears destined to become as obsolete as the old-time blacksmith.
